Madeleine Eastoe

A graduate of The Australian Ballet School, Perth-born Madeleine Eastoe joined The Australian Ballet Company in 1997 and danced many lead roles before being promoted to principal artist following her debut as Giselle in 2006. A career highlight was dancing Odette on the opening night of Graeme Murphy's Swan Lake in London, a role she reprised on the company's 2007 Japan tour and 2008 Paris and Manchester tours. Madeleine has also toured internationally with The Australian Ballet to China, Singapore, New Zealand and the USA. Since retiring, Madeleine has completed a floristry course, before gaining experience teaching ballet around Victoria. She is currently on staff as a Ballet teacher at The Victorian College of the Arts Secondary School, where she specialises in Classical ballet, Repertoire variations and Pas de deux coaching. Her most recent performance experience was dancing in Alice Topp's 'Paragon' for The Australian Ballet's 2023 season celebrating returning artists across many generations.
